

The Midweek Manifesto

by Mike Vardy

My mission is to reflect on the beginning of the week, see what I've not done and reboot it and see what I've done and celebrate it.

Looking forward, I will take what's left to be done and do it. With the rest of my plans I will stand firm.

I'll add tasks as I need and make sure that I heed my own voice.

The voice that tells me, "I must get to complete."